Relation of the Directors to the Work and Publications of the National Bureau of Economic Research

1. The object of the NBER is to ascertain and present to the economics profession, and to the public more generally, important economic facts and their interpretation in a scientific manner without policy recommendations. The Board of Directors is charged with the responsibility of ensuring that the work of the NBER is carried on in strict conformity with this object.

2. The President shall establish an internal review process to ensure that book manuscripts proposed for publication DO NOT contain policy recommendations. This shall apply both to the proceedings of conferences and to manuscripts by a single author or by one or more co-authors but shall not apply to authors of comments at NBER conferences who are not NBER affiliates.

3. No book manuscript reporting research shall be published by the NBER until the President has sent to each member of the Board a notice that a manuscript is recommended for publication and that in the President's opinion it is suitable for publication in accordance with the above principles of the NBER. Such notification will include a table of contents and an abstract or summary of the manuscript's content, a list of contributors if applicable, and a response form for use by Directors who desire a copy of the manuscript for review. Each manuscript shall contain a summary drawing attention to the nature and treatment of the problem studied and the main conclusions reached.

4. No volume shall be published until forty-five days have elapsed from the above notification of intention to publish it. During this period a copy shall be sent to any Director requesting it, and if any Director objects to publication on the grounds that the manuscript contains policy recommendations, the objection will be presented to the author(s) or editor(s). In case of dispute, all members of the Board shall be notified, and the President shall appoint an ad hoc committee of the Board to decide the matter; thirty days additional shall be granted for this purpose.

5. The President shall present annually to the Board a report describing the internal manuscript review process, any objections made by Directors before publication or by anyone after publication, any disputes about such matters, and how they were handled.

6. Publications of the NBER issued for informational purposes concerning the work of the Bureau, or issued to inform the public of the activities at the Bureau, including but not limited to the NBER Digest and Reporter, shall be consistent with the object stated in paragraph 1. They shall contain a specific disclaimer noting that they have not passed through the review procedures required in this resolution. The Executive Committee of the Board is charged with the review of all such publications from time to time.

7. NBER working papers and manuscripts distributed on the Bureau's web site are not deemed to be publications for the purpose of this resolution, but they shall be consistent with the object stated in paragraph 1. Working papers shall contain a specific disclaimer noting that they have not passed through the review procedures required in this resolution. The NBER's web site shall contain a similar disclaimer. The President shall establish an internal review process to ensure that the working papers and the web site do not contain policy recommendations, and shall report annually to the Board on this process and any concerns raised in connection with it.

8. Unless otherwise determined by the Board or exempted by the terms of paragraphs 6 and 7, a copy of this resolution shall be printed in each NBER publication as described in paragraph 2 above.

Mike Grossman dedicates this book to his wife, Ilene, who continues to induce him to “choose” a long life, and to his daughters, Sandy and Barri, his sons-in-law, Steve and Dave, and his grandchildren, Zack, Ben, and Alise. Together with Ilene, they make his life terrific.

Naci Mocan dedicates this book to his wife, Madeline, for her support in his efforts to stay fit, and to his daughter, Leyla, for her sense of humor and for continuously reminding him not to take himself too seriously.

Acknowledgments

The chapters in this volume were presented at a National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER) Conference held at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge on November 10 and 11, 2008. We are grateful to Martin Feldstein, former president of the NBER, for encouraging the NBER Health Economics Program to hold a conference on economic aspects of obesity and for his assistance in helping us to fund the conference. We also are grateful to James Poterba, current president of the NBER, for his assistance in publishing the volume.

Major funding for the conference and the publication of the volume were provided by grant number 62026 from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to the NBER. We owe a large debt of gratitude to the foundation. We want to thank Tracy Orleans, a distinguished fellow and senior scientist at RWJF, and especially Laura Leviton, a special advisor for evaluation at the foundation, for guiding the proposal through the funding process. Laura provided outstanding advice, persevered through a constant stream of e-mail messages, and always responded to them in a prompt manner. In addition, she made penetrating comments on preliminary versions of the chapters presented at a preconference held at the NBER Cambridge, Massachusetts, office on April 25, 2008.

Meals and lodging for the Baton Rouge conference were funded by a grant from the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Foundation of Louisiana to Louisiana State University. We are grateful to the foundation for its generosity and to Christy Oliver Reeves, its executive director, for her support. We would also like to thank Robert Newman, chairman of the economics department of LSU, for his efforts in making it possible to hold the conference at LSU. We are indebted to Mary Jo Neathery, an administrative assistant in the department, and Sarah Marx, Duha Altindag, and Colin Cannonier, all of whom are Ph.D. candidates in economics at LSU, for working tirelessly during the conference.

Each of the twelve chapters presented at the conference and contained in this volume benefited from the comments of a discussant. We would like to acknowledge and thank those discussants. Listed in the order in which the chapters they commented on appear, they are:

Kristin F. Butcher, Wellesley College and NBER

Alan C. Monheit, University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and NBER

Michael Anderson, University of California at Berkeley

Dhaval Dave, Bentley College and NBER

Tinna Laufey Ásgeirsdóttir, University of Iceland

Susan L. Averett, Lafayette College

Barbara Schone, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Kerry Anne McGeary, Ball State University and NBER

James Sallis, San Diego State University

Jeffrey DeSimone, University of Texas at Arlington and NBER

Roy Wada, University of Illinois at Chicago

Sara Markowitz, Emory University and NBER

The entire manuscript was read by two anonymous reviewers: one named by the NBER and one named by the University of Chicago Press. We are indebted to them for their many helpful comments. Finally, we wish to thank Helena Fitz-Patrick, coordinator of book publishing at the NBER, and David J. Pervin, senior editor at the University of Chicago Press, for editorial assistance.
