INDEXES FROM WHOLESALE PRICES AND RELATED DATA

General Note

This appendix contains price indexes and indexes of U.S. price competitiveness computed from domestic wholesale price series for SITC 2-digit commodity divisions, 3-digit groups, and 4-digit subgroups. The foreign countries included in this appendix are the United Kingdom, Germany, France, and Japan. There were insufficient data for the computation of indexes for the EEC. Some additional series on German producers' prices are shown, in addition to the wholesale price data.

The indexes were collected in as great a commodity detail as possible, and each series was classified by the SITC coding system. The SITC groups and subgroups listed are all those for which wholesale price series are available, even if only a single commodity is covered.

The foreign wholesale price indexes are, in most cases, annual averages for the years 1953, 1957, 1961, and 1962, and midyears for 1963 and 1964. U.S. wholesale price indexes are midyears (June–July averages) for all the years included. For all the indexes, 1962 equals 100. Changes in German prices between 1957 and 1961 were adjusted to take account of a 5 per cent appreciation of the German mark, and French price series were adjusted for the 29 per cent depreciation of the French franc in 1961.

For each country the 4-digit wholesale price indexes, when available, were aggregated to 3-digit averages, and then to 2-digit averages, using international trade weights. The indexes of U.S. price competitiveness computed from wholesale price indexes were calculated at the most detailed level available and aggregated using international weights.

The sources for the official wholesale price series used for each country are listed below:

United States: Wholesale Prices and Price Indexes, Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Dept. of Labor, July issues, and unpublished data of the BLS.

United Kingdom: Annual Abstract of Statistics, Central Statistical Office, No. 95, 1958, and No. 100, 1963; Board of Trade Journal, October 16, 1964, and August 14, 1968; and correspondence with Statistics Division, Board of Trade.

<sup>a</sup>The series in this group are not entirely comparable. U.S. series cover diesels, outboard motors, and other gasoline engines, while data for France refer solely to gasoline engines. Japan has diesel series for the entire period, and beginning in 1961 series also for gasoline engines, kerosene engines, and marine diesels.

<sup>b</sup>Only the tractor series was available for 1953 and 1957.

<sup>c</sup>Excluding 714.3, statistical machines.

<sup>e</sup>This is an index for "other metalworking machinery" and covers not only SITC 715.1, but also hand tools and accessories and parts for tools.

<sup>f</sup>Covers 715.23 only.

<sup>g</sup>Covers 715.21 only.

<sup>i</sup>This is the Wholesale Price Index for mining machinery and includes items classified by the SITC in 718.4 and other groups.

<sup>j</sup>The series cover SITC 719.31 only.

<sup>l</sup>The U.S. series cover SITC subgroups 719.63, 719.64 and 719.65 only.

<sup>a</sup>Subgroup SITC 723.1 accounts for 82 per cent of OECD exports of SITC 723.

<sup>b</sup>The U.S. series do not include portable transistor radios, while Japanese 724.2 series include only portable transistor radios, and are therefore presumably biased downward relative to other countries' indexes.

<sup>c</sup>The 4-digit groups included in the U.S. SITC 724 index comprise only 21 per cent of OECD exports of the 3-digit groups.
