Relation of the Directors to the Work and Publications of the National Bureau of Economic Research

1. The object of the National Bureau of Economic Research is to ascertain and to present to the public important economic facts and their interpretation in a scientific and impartial manner. The Board of Directors is charged with the responsibility of ensuring that the work of the National Bureau is carried on in strict conformity with this object.

2. The President of the National Bureau shall submit to the Board of Directors, or to its Executive Committee, for their formal adoption all specific proposals for research to be instituted.

3. No research report shall be published until the President shall have submitted to each member of the Board the manuscript proposed for publication, and such information as will, in his opinion and in the opinion of the author, serve to determine the suitability of the report for publication in accordance with the principles of the National Bureau. Each manuscript shall contain a summary drawing attention to the nature and treatment of the problem studied, the character of the data and their utilization in the report, and the main conclusions reached.

4. For each manuscript so submitted, a special committee of the Directors (including Directors Emeriti) shall be appointed by majority agreement of the President and Vice Presidents (or by the Executive Committee in case of inability to decide on the part of the President and Vice Presidents), consisting of three Directors selected as nearly as may be one from each general division of the Board. The names of the special manuscript committee shall be stated to each Director when the manuscript is submitted to him. It shall be the duty of each member of the special manuscript committee to read the manuscript. If each member of the manuscript committee signifies his approval within thirty days of the transmittal of the manuscript, the report may be published. If at the end of that period any member of the manuscript committee withholds his approval, the President shall then notify each member of the Board, requesting approval or disapproval of publication, and thirty days additional shall be granted for this purpose. The manuscript shall then not be published unless at least a majority of the entire Board who shall have voted on the proposal within the time fixed for the receipt of votes shall have approved.

5. No manuscript may be published, though approved by each member of the special manuscript committee, until forty-five days have elapsed from the transmittal of the report in manuscript form. The interval is allowed for the receipt of any memorandum of dissent or reservation, together with a brief statement of his reasons, that any member may wish to express; and such memorandum of dissent or reservation shall be published with the manuscript if he so desires. Publication does not, however, imply that each member of the Board has read the manuscript, or that either members of the Board in general or the special committee have passed on its validity in every detail.

6. Publications of the National Bureau issued for informational purposes concerning the work of the Bureau and its staff, or issued to inform the public of activities of Bureau staff, and volumes issued as a result of various conferences involving the National Bureau shall contain a specific disclaimer noting that such publication has not passed through the normal review procedures required in this resolution. The Executive Committee of the Board is charged with review of all such publications from time to time to ensure that they do not take on the character of formal research reports of the National Bureau, requiring formal Board approval.

7. Unless otherwise determined by the Board or exempted by the terms of paragraph 6, a copy of this resolution shall be printed in each National Bureau publication.

(Resolution adopted October 25, 1926, and revised February 6, 1933, February 24, 1941, April 20, 1968, and September 17, 1973)

*To my mother,
and the memory of my father*

The Committee on the Distribution of Income is in process of organization to meet a growing demand for a scientific determination of the distribution of national income among individuals . . . A knowledge of this distribution is of vital consequence in the consideration of almost every important political and social problem . . .

June 4, 1917 memorandum of the Committee on the Distribution of Income, which evolved into the National Bureau of Economic Research in 1920.

Acknowledgments

I am greatly indebted to Gary Becker and Jacob Mincer for their encouragement and constructive criticism during the gestation period of this book. Comments received from the staff reading committee—V. K. Chetty, Sherwin Rosen, and Finis Welch—and from the Board of Directors' reading committee—Robert Lampman, Lloyd Reynolds, Alice Rivlin, and Robert Will—were also most helpful. In addition, comments by Victor Fuchs, John Meyer, Robert Michael, and Carmel Ullman, as well as those received at seminars at the National Bureau, Columbia University, the University of Chicago, the University of California, Los Angeles, and Queens College C.U.N.Y., aided in sharpening my analysis and exposition.

Financial support was provided primarily by the National Bureau of Economic Research through grants from the Carnegie Corporation of New York for studies on education, and the Economic Development Administration, Department of Commerce for regional studies. Additional aid was provided by a Ford Foundation fellowship, a visiting research appointment at Princeton University's Industrial Relations section, and by the research facilities of Columbia University, the University of California, Los Angeles, the University of Chicago, Queens College, and the Graduate Center of the City University of New York.

I wish to thank Martin Carnoy for lending me his sample data on Mexican wage earners, and Jennie Podoluk and Statistics Canada (formerly the Dominion Bureau of Statistics), for access to unpublished census data.

Martha Jones Lichtenstein's initial help in the processing of the data, and research assistance from Irene Abramson, Neville Beharie, and Hope Wong were invaluable. Hedy D. Jelinek's skillful editing is also appreciated.

Part B is primarily a revision of the income inequality chapters in my doctoral dissertation, "Human Capital and the Personal Distribution of Income," Columbia University, 1967. The section on earnings inequality and economic growth in Chapter 5 is based on my "Earnings Inequality and Economic Development," Quarterly Journal of Economics, February 1971.
