Relation of the Directors to the Work and Publications of the National Bureau of Economic Research

1. The object of the National Bureau of Economic Research is to ascertain and to present to the public important economic facts and their interpretation in a scientific and impartial manner. The Board of Directors is charged with the responsibility of ensuring that the work of the National Bureau is carried on in strict conformity with this object.

2. The President of the National Bureau shall submit to the Board of Directors, or to its Executive Committee, for their formal adoption all specific proposals for research to be instituted.

3. No research report shall be published until the President shall have submitted to each member of the Board the manuscript proposed for publication, and such information as will, in his opinion and in the opinion of the author, serve to determine the suitability of the report for publication in accordance with the principles of the National Bureau. Each manuscript shall contain a summary drawing attention to the nature and treatment of the problem studied, the character of the data and their utilization in the report, and the main conclusions reached.

4. For each manuscript so submitted, a special committee of the Board shall be appointed by majority agreement of the President and Vice Presidents (or by the Executive Committee in case of inability to decide on the part of the President and Vice Presidents), consisting of three directors selected as nearly as may be one from each general division of the Board. The names of the special manuscript committee shall be stated to each Director when the manuscript is submitted to him. It shall be the duty of each member of the special manuscript committee to read the manuscript. If each member of the manuscript committee signifies his approval within thirty days of the transmittal of the manuscript, the report may be published. If at the end of that period any member of the manuscript committee withholds his approval, the President shall then notify each member of the Board, requesting approval or disapproval of publication, and thirty days additional shall be granted for this purpose. The manuscript shall then not be published unless at least a majority of the entire Board who shall have voted on the proposal within the time fixed for the receipt of votes shall have approved.

5. No manuscript may be published, though approved by each member of the special manuscript committee, until forty-five days have elapsed from the transmittal of the report in manuscript form. The interval is allowed for the receipt of any memorandum of dissent or reservation, together with a brief statement of his reasons, that any member may wish to express; and such memorandum of dissent or reservation shall be published with the manuscript if he so desires. Publication does not, however, imply that each member of the Board has read the manuscript, or that either members of the Board in general or the special committee have passed on its validity in every detail.

6. Publications of the National Bureau issued for informational purposes concerning the work of the Bureau and its staff, or issued to inform the public of activities of Bureau staff, and volumes issued as a result of various conferences involving the National Bureau shall contain a specific disclaimer noting that such publication has not passed through the normal review procedures required in this resolution. The Executive Committee of the Board is charged with review of all such publications from time to time to ensure that they do not take on the character of formal research reports of the National Bureau, requiring formal Board approval.

7. Unless otherwise determined by the Board or exempted by the terms of paragraph 6, a copy of this resolution shall be printed in each National Bureau publication.

(Resolution adopted October 25, 1926 and revised February 6, 1933, February 24, 1941, and April 20, 1968)

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Virtually all economic research is cooperative. Until one is responsible for a research project, however, it is difficult to appreciate just how important the contribution of others are. This book was completed only because of the help of a great many people.

Mrs. Maude R. Pech was a full partner — the “working partner,” in fact — for most sections of Part II. She dug out, processed, and kept track of virtually all of the 599 time series listed here. She collected most of the information for the source notes. She assisted in many facets of the text as well. Fully as important, she accomplished all this with incomparable energy and unfailing good cheer.

Upon Mrs. Pech’s retirement, Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson Wehle took on the many responsibilities related to the series, including, notably, the final preparations for publication — responsibilities that she fulfilled with admirable patience, persistence and skill.

For the structure and content of the study, my heaviest debt is to Geoffrey H. Moore, who gave with unstinting generosity his time and wise counsel. He initiated the project and contributed immensely — far beyond what was entailed in his responsibilities as Director of Research — at every stage of the research and writing. Similarly, Solomon Fabricant gave enormously valuable assistance throughout the project, especially in the organization of the text. Important help was received on many points, conceptual and empirical, from James S. Earley and Robert M. Fisher.

Many other individuals, both within and outside the National Bureau, made valuable contributions to one or another aspect of the study. For those contributions, I am very grateful to Rowena Wyant, Kenneth Wright, Berkeley Wright, Albert Wojnilower, Donald Woodward, Judith Weiss, Joan Tron, Lazare Teper, Vivian Stevens, John Stafford, Albert Sommers, William Silber, Boris Shishkin, Royal Shipp, Murray Shields, Paul Schweitzer, Harry Schwartz, Richard and Nancy Ruggles, Roy Reiersen, Howard Poduska, Richard Pickering, Paul Nadler, Muriel Moeller, Charlie Mitchell, George McKinney, John Marlin, Alfred Litwak, Robert Lipsey, Robert Link, Ruth LaPan, Robert Landry, Robert Knight, Saul Klaman, Bill Kennedy, Leon Kendall, Thomas Juster, Martha Jones, John Herzog, George Hempel, J. Russell Hanson, Orin Hansen, Frederick Hammer, Gnomi Schrift Gouldin, John Gorman, H. Irving Forman, Cecelia Fleming, Joyce Fisher, Alan Ettman, Grover Ensley, Van Eitel, Edward Echols, Antoinette Delak, Ernst Dauer, Avery Cohan, Gerhard Bry, Arthur Brickner, Charlotte Boschan, Lucy Blau, Guy Baughns, Betty Bancala, George Baker, Thomas Atkinson and I. Lee Amann.

Many organizations were of great help in uncovering useful time series, digging out back data, and describing sources. The most extensive contribution, made in the friendliest possible spirit of cooperation, was received from Dun & Broadstreet, Inc., whose series will be found in Part II throughout the section on business credit. I am also grateful for the generous efforts of the Veterans Administration, United States Savings and Loan League, Office of Business Economics of the U.S. Department of Commerce, National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, Life Insurance Association of America, First National Bank of Chicago, Federal Housing Administration, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and American Bankers Association.

Special thanks are given to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and to Bankers Trust Company for their generous financial support of this project.

Finally, my deepest gratitude is to my wife, Jessie.

Despite all this help, errors no doubt remain. They are, of course, my responsibility alone.

FOREWORD

One of the clearest findings of the National Bureau's Quality of Credit Program, to which more than a dozen Bureau publications appearing over the past ten years are evidence, was that statistical series on the quality and performance of credit needed to be dug out from their fugitive sources, systematized, and brought together for convenient reference. The present study, which got under way only after most of the specialized credit studies were near completion, performs this important function.

Like true scholars, Dr. Fiedler and Mrs. Pech gathered all the significant statistical series bearing on credit quality that diligent search could uncover. Some of these were direct products of the Bureau's own studies; some already existed but were little known or not readily available; and still others have been inaugurated by other agencies under the stimulus of the Bureau's Quality of Credit Program. In addition to reproducing each of these series, the authors seek to show the significance of the data for the understanding of the behavior of the economy.

On behalf of the Bureau, I am privileged to acknowledge with thanks the substantial financial contributions that the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and Bankers Trust Company of New York made to this project. The many contributions of individuals and of private and public agencies to the gathering of the data and the preparation of the monograph are mentioned in the authors' Acknowledgments.
