Prefatory Note

Preliminary versions of the papers and discussions contained in this volume were presented at the Conference on Productivity Growth in Japan and the United States held in Cambridge, Massachusetts, 26–28 August 1985. Funds for this conference were provided to the National Bureau of Economic Research by the National Science Foundation through grant PRA-8414535. Funding of the Conference on Research in Income and Wealth series is now provided by the Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Economic Analysis, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Statistics Canada, and the Statistics Division of the Internal Revenue Service. We are indebted to all of them for their support. We also thank Charles R. Hulten, who served as an organizer of the conference and as editor of this volume, and the other members of the organizing committee, Mieko Nishimizu and John R. Norsworthy. Laurits R. Christensen had an early organizing role.

Volume Editor's Acknowledgments

I would like to thank Mieko Nishimizu and John R. Norsworthy who, as members of the organizing committee, were instrumental in shaping and organizing the conference program. The financial support of the National Science Foundation, grant PRA-8414535, is also gratefully acknowledged. Special thanks are due Kathi Smith of the NBER for her considerable efforts with the administrative arrangements and for seeing that all went smoothly at the 26–28 August 1985 conference. Finally, thanks are due to Mark Fitz-Patrick, also of the NBER, and to Judy Xanthopoulos and Gregorio Arevalo of the University of Maryland, for invaluable assistance in the editorial process.
