

CALL FOR PAPERS – Please Post and Distribute American Economic Journal: Applied Economics

One of four new journals established by the American Economic Association, the American Economic Journal: Applied Economics (AEJ Applied) invites submissions.

Scope

AEJ Applied will publish papers covering a range of topics in applied economics, with a focus on empirical micro-economic issues. In particular, it will cover labor economics and empirical corporate finance; demography; development microeconomics; and health, education, and welfare economics.

Editors

Editor: Esther Duflo, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Co-Editor: Thomas Lemieux, University of British Columbia

Board of Editors:

|   |  |
|---|--|
| Jerome Adda, University College London                | Michael Kremer, Harvard University                       |
| Joshua Angrist, Massachusetts Institute of Technology | David Lee, Princeton University                          |
| David Autor, Massachusetts Institute of Technology    | Alan Manning, London School of Economics                 |
| John Bound, University of Michigan                    | Edward Miguel, University of California-Berkeley         |
| Marianne Bertrand, University of Chicago              | Sendhil Mulainathan, Harvard University                  |
| David Card, University of California-Berkeley         | Rohini Pande, Harvard University                         |
| Andrew Foster, Brown University                       | Luigi Pistaferri, Stanford University                    |
| Brian Jacob, Harvard University                       | Imran Rasul, University College London                   |
| Chinhui Juhn, University of Houston                   | Antoinette Schoar, Massachusetts Institute of Technology |
| Jeffrey Kling, Brookings Institution                  | Duncan Thomas, Duke University                           |

Submissions

AEJ Applied is a peer-reviewed journal. The submission fee is $100 for AEA members and $200 for nonmembers. The journal reserves the right to reject some papers on the basis of an initial screening by the editors, in which cases submission fees will be returned to authors. After initial screening of papers, the normal review process will be carried out following the same “double-blind” procedure used by the American Economic Review. Thus, authors should not be identified anywhere in the paper itself. To accelerate the decision process, authors of manuscripts previously reviewed by the AER may request that, subject to the referees' agreement, the full correspondence files of the AER referees (including cover letters as well as referees' reports) be shared with the editors of AEJ Applied, who will have the discretion to make a decision based on these reports or to request additional reports.

AEJ Applied will publish papers of varying length, although manuscripts exceeding 50 pages will rarely be published. The journal will not have separate sections of longer and shorter papers. Authors of published papers will have the right to republication in any work in any form, including digital repositories. Submissions to the journal must be made electronically, via the following web site, which also provides additional information about the submission process: www.aeaweb.org/aej-applied/

Publication and Subscriptions

Each of the American Economic Journals will appear quarterly beginning in 2009, two published in January/April/July/October and two in February/May/August/November each year. Members of the American Economic Association will have electronic access to all four AEJs, including pre-publication versions of accepted papers, through the Association website. (If you have not yet secured a password to the members-only website, and wish to do so, please go to <http://www.vanderbilt.edu/AEA/membership.htm> and click on New Members; or download a membership form, fill it out, and fax it to (615) 343-7590.)

All members will receive a complimentary print copy of the inaugural issue of each new journal, and upon request will continue to receive complimentary print copies until membership renewal. Thereafter, Association members will be able to purchase print copies of the American Economic Journals on an ongoing basis for $25 per year per journal (plus $15 foreign postage where applicable) as part of the normal membership renewal process. Instructions for procedures to continue receiving print copies will be included in the inaugural issues. Subscriptions to the American Economic Journals are not available independently of membership in the Association.