Name: Amir

Family: Foroughi

Email: foroughi.ukm@gmail.com

I am PhD student in Business and Entrepreneurship Education at in University Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM). I was lecturer in Islamic Azad University (Iran) and Limkok wings(Malaysia) teaching management research methods, Business statistics in department of management for business and industry management students through 2007-2010.

I have a good experience in teaching and research in university special data analysis by Spss, Amos and Smart-PLS softwares. I published several article in international journal and conference about management (Attached in CV). I prefer to continue my experience in teaching and research in your university. In all these years, I was determined to increase my teaching experience in international universities. I know your university as one of the best universities in Middle East and which has a very active faculty with a lot of publications and modern facilities in my research areas. Having a major concentration on innovation and many research projects in this field, were my most important reasons for applying to your university. In addition, earning academic position in such an exciting project fundamentally advances my capabilities and ultimately, however, teaching in higher education in itself is a stepping stone; I enjoy studying for its own sake.
