Carnegie Mellon University is seeking candidates of any rank to join a community of scholars working across disciplinary boundaries to conduct research in the economics of technological change and innovation, the role of entrepreneurship in promoting innovation, and the management of innovation (see <http://www.cmu.edu/SETChange/>). Researchers with a focus on the international aspects and dimensions of innovation and technological change are especially encouraged to apply. Our search team consists of representatives from CMU's Heinz College, the Department of Social and Decision Sciences, and the Department of Engineering and Public Policy, and appointments across one or more of these units are possible.

Carnegie Mellon is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer.
