

CALL FOR PAPERS
NATIONAL TAX ASSOCIATION

102nd ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON TAXATION

Conference Chair: James Poterba, President, National Tax Association

Program Chairs: Rosanne Altshuler, Urban-Brookings Tax Policy Center and Hilary Hoynes,
University of California Davis

November 12-14, 2009
Grand Hyatt, Denver, Colorado

The 102nd Annual Conference on Taxation will cover a broad range of topics including, but not limited to, taxation and tax policies; expenditure policies; government budgeting; intergovernmental fiscal relations; and subnational, national, and international public finance. The conference will focus, as always, on policy-relevant research bearing on taxation and government spending.

You are invited to submit a paper or complete session. While we have not selected a formal theme for the conference, we expect that issues of fiscal stimulus, entitlement reform, and federal involvement in the financial sector will be active topics for discussion.

The conference will feature two keynote speakers: Christina Romer, the current Chair of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Mark Wolfson, the Stanford Business School professor who pioneered the fusion of accounting, finance, and economics research in taxation.

The deadline for submitting papers or sessions is May 1, 2009. Decisions concerning the inclusion of papers and sessions will be announced in June 2009. Authors of accepted papers will be offered the opportunity to include them in the Proceedings. All presenters will be required to register and pay a conference registration fee.

We are using an online submission procedure this year. To submit a paper or session, please go to:

<http://editorialexpress.com/conference/>

There you can set up an account and then follow the link to National Tax Association Denver November 2009.

To submit a paper, you will need to provide:

- The title of the paper; an abstract of the paper; and, preferably, a draft of the paper; and the names and contact information for all authors, including mailing and e-mail addresses and phone.

To submit a complete session, you will need to submit the following:

- The title and a brief description of the session; an abstract for suggested papers for the session (along with a draft of each paper); names and affiliations of all authors; and the name and contact information for the person proposing the session.
