

Position # 2

Carnegie Mellon University
Heinz College/School of Public Policy and Management

Title: Assistant / Associate Professors of the Economics of Innovation

Submit Instructions: Electronic submissions of material are required. Send CV, two research papers, and three letters of reference to heinz-jobs@andrew.cmu.edu. Please send all materials in PDF format.

Full Text of Listing:

The School of Public Policy and Management of the Heinz College at Carnegie Mellon University is recruiting economists who study the economics of innovation and technological change. The ideal candidate will possess strong empirical skills and be able to interact productively with the growing SETChange research community at CMU, profiled at <http://www.cmu.edu/SETChange/>. We welcome applications from junior candidates; senior candidates with outstanding research records and international reputations may also be considered.

Carnegie Mellon is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer.