

3. SURVEY CONTENT

This chapter provides an overview of the content of the Survey Income and Program Participation (SIPP) survey. SIPP is a longitudinal survey that collects information on topics such as poverty, income, employment, and health insurance coverage. SIPP core content covers demographic characteristics, work experience, earnings, program participation, transfer income, and asset income. Each interview wave contains additional topical content, including one or more topical modules, allowing the Census Bureau to address a range of subjects.¹

The SIPP Interview

Computer-assisted interviewing (CAI) was introduced in the 1996 Panel. Before then, data was collected using a paper instrument. Computer-assisted interviewing² allows a number of advantages over interviewing with a paper instrument. Survey elements appear seamless to both the interviewer and the respondent. In addition, the CAI instrument is programmed so that any irrelevant questions are skipped, where before it was at the discretion of the interviewer in the paper instrument. CAI also allows much of the core content from prior waves to be referenced in each interview. In some cases, the CAI instrument uses responses and logic from one part of the interview in subsequent parts of the interview, which permits checking for consistency and accuracy in the data while the interviewer is still in contact with the household.

For both the CAI instrument and the pre-1996 paper survey, data gathered every time the survey is conducted are referred to as core content. The core questionnaire collects critical labor force, income, and program participation data and is repeated at each interview. Questions asked periodically and targeted to specific topics outside the range of the core content provide topical content and are referred to as topical modules. Topical modules cover a range of issues such as assets, pensions, and health care.

Respondents must be at least 15 years of age or older to answer questions for themselves or for other household members. While questionnaires are not completed for household members under age 15, information is collected about them so that household members under age 15 are fully represented in the SIPP sample. When necessary, information in the CAI instrument is used to determine the next best person in the household with whom a dependent or proxy interview should be conducted; that is often, but not always, the reference person (See Chapter 2).

Skip patterns within the instrument control which questions are asked of each respondent. Skip ¹ Analysts should consult the actual survey instrument for answers to specific questions about the ordering and wording of survey items.

² Although all interviews were conducted using an automated survey instrument residing on a laptop, not all interviews were done in person. In some cases, interviews were conducted by phone from the interviewer's home.

patterns tailor the questions to the circumstances of the respondent and bypass irrelevant questions. For example, if a respondent has already said that he or she did not work during the reference period, the skip pattern will prevent the interviewer from asking the person what kind of job was held during that time. The CAI instrument automatically calls up the next relevant question, making the skip patterns transparent to both interviewers and respondents. Before the introduction of CAI, interviewers followed instructions on the paper survey in order to skip inappropriate questions. Figure 3-1 illustrates the way in which skip patterns worked in the paper survey. Since CAI handles skip patterns from behind the scenes, Figure 3-1 might also be viewed as showing what is invisible in CAI.

Core Content

Core questions are typically asked at the start of the interview. At the beginning of each household visit, the interviewer completes or updates a roster listing all household members, verifies basic demographic information about each household member, and checks certain facts about the household. The CAI instrument performs behind the scenes case management functions at the same time. Prior to the advent of CAI, that information was contained on the control card, which provided a mechanism for carrying information forward from one wave to the next for each sample member. Core questions covering key subject areas of SIPP follow the initial questions. For the most part, the 1996 Panel and subsequent panels cover the same content as panels prior to 1996; however, the organization of the content within the 1996 CAI instrument is somewhat different than that of Pre-96 panels.

Core Content for 1996+ Panels

SIPP core content covers a variety of topics, including labor force status and employment, earnings, business ownership and earnings, asset ownership and earnings, program participation, child support received and paid, among others. While CAI allows the SIPP interview to proceed seamlessly, analysts will perceive distinct sections within the core data.

SIPP core content also includes small sections that deal with health insurance ownership and coverage (Medicare coverage, Medicaid, private and employer-provided health insurance, and reasons for non-coverage), education (educational attainment, adult school enrollment, and other income and benefit sources).

Employment and Earnings

The first major group of core survey questions addresses employment and earnings. This section collects information about the respondents' labor force status for each week of the reference period; identifies characteristics of employers, self-employment, and businesses the respondent might own; and gathers data about earnings, whether from a job or from self-employment. Respondents are asked about their labor force status and any unemployment compensation for a time period covering the beginning of the 4-month reference period up through the date of the interview. The type of work performed and dates of employment are also noted. The interviewer asks respondents who own businesses whether they are active in its' management, own it as an investment, or some combination thereof. The survey also collects data on time spent looking for work, moonlighting, usual hours worked, and the current employment situation for up to two jobs and two businesses. Employment status is derived from information about specific jobs.

The flow of the survey is such that questions about employment and job characteristics are asked first. Then amounts are collected separately. Probes ensure that amounts are reasonable and that gross (not net) amounts are obtained. Respondents are asked to refer to records whenever possible.

Program Income, General Income, and Asset Income

These questions focus on income from a source other than the respondents' work situation. Many of the questions address income or benefits from programs such as Social Security or Food Stamps (and the 1996+ panels have been adapted to capture post-reform welfare benefits); the survey also collects information about retirement, disability and survivor income, unemployment insurance and workers' compensation as well as severance pay, lump-sum payments from pension or retirement plans, child support, and alimony payments. A set of general income questions takes information collected previously and obtains more details about who is covered, how payments are received, reasons for receiving government transfer income, and other data having to do with program participation. SIPP also collects information on amounts of roll over retirement accounts.

To obtain information on asset income, interviewers ask respondents which assets they own, prompting the respondent from a list including U.S. savings bonds, 401(k) plans, 403(b), thrift plans, stocks, rental property, mutual funds and the like. Respondents are also asked if they have received any lump sum or regular payments from an IRA, Keogh, 401(k), 403(b) or thrift plan. Other questions address income received from assets owned, other than retirement accounts. Income for some assets is collected and recorded within preset ranges. Most asset income is recorded in exact amounts whenever possible, however. The issue of joint ownership of assets is also addressed.

Additional Questions

SIPP core content also includes small sections that deal with health insurance ownership and coverage (Medicare coverage, Medicaid, private and employer-provided health insurance, and reasons for noncoverage), education (educational attainment, adult school enrollment, and educational assistance), and energy assistance and school breakfast and lunch program participation.

Table 3-1 lists possible income and benefit sources, along with some special indicators

Core Content for Pre-1996 Panels

Core content in the paper surveys used before the 1996 Panel was structured differently, in four very distinct sections that are described below.

Labor Force and Reciprocity

The first set of survey questions addressed the respondent's labor force status, sources of any income received, participation in government transfer programs, and health insurance coverage during the 4-month reference period. Respondents were asked about any employment during each of the 4 months prior to the interview month, although detailed information about their specific jobs was not collected here. Respondents who were employed were asked about the number of hours they worked during a typical week and the number of weeks they worked. For those who did not work, SIPP interviewers asked if they were on layoff or had looked for a job.

These survey questions also elicited whether any income had been received from a list of other potential sources, including government programs. Respondents were asked about their ownership of assets, although this section of the interview did not include questions about amounts earned in those assets.

Earnings and Employment

The earnings and employment section asked respondents who reported any employment during the 4-month reference period covered by the interview a more detailed series of questions about the jobs they held. Interviewers collected information for up to two different wage and salary jobs in each wave. For each job, data were collected on occupation, industry, and work activities and duties. Several questions were intended to determine the total pay from each job for each month of the reference period. Similar information was collected for up to two different self-employment jobs in each wave.

Amounts of Income Received

The third group of core questions addressed the amounts of income or benefits received from sources other than earnings.³ Detailed information was also collected about participation in government transfer programs. For each non government, non asset source reported (e.g., alimony payments), respondents were asked the amount of income received during each of the prior 4 months. If benefits were received from government programs, respondents were asked the reason for program participation and who within the household was covered. Questions about asset income, from sources such as interest, dividends, rents, and royalties, sought only the total amount for the 4-month reference period. Examples of assets include money market funds, stocks, rental property, and other financial investments. An example of income earned from an asset would be the interest from a savings account.

Program Questions

The final section of the SIPP core included questions about participation in programs that provide subsidized housing, energy assistance, and school meal programs.

Topical Module Content

Topical questions are those that are not repeated in each wave. These questions usually appear in separate topical modules that follow the core questions. Topical modules are designed to gather specific information on a wide variety of subjects. They provide a broader picture of the types of individuals who are responding to the survey and give SIPP some flexibility in collecting data on emerging issues. Some topical modules are included in each panel but, unlike the core content, are not in each wave. The frequency and timing of these modules may vary. For example, the personal history topical modules are always administered once, in Waves 1 and 2. Other topical modules are asked multiple times within the same panel; the Assets and Liabilities module, for example, were included three times within the 2001 Panel.

For some questions, the topical module question may appear to look like a core question. For example, the core asks about asset ownership, whether or not you have stocks or bond and how much was earned. The topical module questions on wealth asks about the amount held in stocks and bonds. Similarly, home-based-employment and size-of-firm data collected in the 1992 and 1993

Panels (Waves 6 and 3, respectively) are incorporated into the core questionnaire.

Reference periods for items in topical modules vary widely, ranging from the respondent's status at the time of the interview to the respondent's experience over his or her entire life. When working with data from the SIPP topical modules, it is necessary to check each question wording carefully to ascertain the reference period. Universes must also be checked for each question, because topical modules are not uniformly asked of all respondents. For example, in the retirement and pension topical module, respondents 21 years of age or older are asked about their retirement and pension accounts with their current employer, however respondents 25 and older are asked questions relating to lump sums from a previous employer. Questions on shelter costs and energy usage are asked only of the reference person. In other modules, a screening question will determine who is and is not asked the remainder of the module in the case of the Work Schedule module, for example, only those who worked during the previous month answer the entire set of questions.

The relationship between topical module titles and content is not perfectly consistent. Over the history of SIPP, there have been situations in which either the topical module content changed with no change in title or the topical module title changed with little change in content. In a few situations, content has floated from one topical module to another. And sometimes there has been significant overlap in content between two topical modules with different titles.

The actual survey questions are provided with the microdata technical documentation. Specific topical modules are discussed below, with the panels and waves listed in brackets (e.g., [04-3, 04-6] for a module asked in the third wave and the sixth wave of the 2004 Panel). Chapter 5 lists topical modules and the panels and waves in which they were included in the survey. Table 3-2 groups topical modules thematically (modules may appear in more than one category).

Specific Topical Modules

Adult Well - Being. See Extended Measures of Well-Being. [91-6, 92-3, 93-9, 96-8, 01-8, 04-5, 08-6, 08-9]

Annual Income and Retirement Accounts. Obtains respondent estimates of calendar-year business income and personal retirement plans. The module asks about businesses owned by respondents, gross income and expenses for such businesses, net income to such businesses, retirement accounts, including IRA, Keogh, and 401(k), and respondent participation in those retirement plans. [84-9, 85-5, 85-8, 86-5, 87-5, 88-5, 90-5, 90-8, 91-5, 91-8, 92-5, 92-8, 93-5, 93-8, 96-4, 96-7, 96-10, 01- 4, 01-7, 04-4, 04-7, 08-5, 08-8]

Assets, Liabilities, and Eligibility. Collects information about the value of assets and debt on assets and expands data gathered in the core questions. The intent of this topical module is to derive a comprehensive measure of household net worth and to collect information used to determine eligibility for federal and local assistance programs. To that end, the topical module includes selected additional questions needed to determine program eligibility. Some of the assets included are savings accounts, stocks, mutual funds, and bonds. Data on unsecured liabilities such as loans, credit cards, and medical bills are also gathered. Real estate and vehicle costs, mortgages owned, and rental properties, as well as value of business and other financial investments are collected. Assets and liabilities that are held jointly are identified to prevent double counting. [84-4, 84-7, 85-3, 85-7, 86-4, 86-7, 87-4, 90-4, 91-7, 92-4, 93-7, 96-3, 96-6, 96-9, 96-12, 01-3, 01-6, 01-9, 04-3, 04-6, 08-4,

Basic Needs. See Extended Measures of Well-Being. [93-9]

Child Care. Collects information about all child care arrangements, for all children under 15, from mothers, single fathers, or guardians, regardless of labor force status. Those with children under age 15 are asked about the type of child care arrangements, who provides the care, the number of hours of care per week, where the care is provided, and the cost of the care. The module asks whether a relative or nonrelative cared for the child, and if the child was in school. Before the 1993 Panel, the module collected information about only one to two child care arrangements from mothers, single fathers, or guardians who were either working, in school, or looking for a job during the 4-month reference period. [84-5, 85-6, 86-3, 86-6, 87-3, 87-6, 88-3, 88-6, 89-3, 90-3, 91-3, 92-6, 92-9, 93-3, 93-6, 96-4, 96-10, 01-4, 04-4, 04-8, 08-05, 08-08]

Child Support Agreements. Helps determine whether money received as child support affects participation in government programs and whether lack of support from one parent causes the other parent to need government assistance. The module collects information about characteristics of child support agreements, the annual amount and frequency of payments, and provisions for health care costs. Additional questions cover custodial arrangements, contact with public agencies for assistance in collection of child support, frequency of contact with the absent parent, current place of residence of the absent parent, and reasons for non-award of child support. Questions about paternity establishment status are also asked about children of women with non-written agreements and all never married women. [85-6, 86-3, 86-6, 87-3, 87-6, 88-3, 88-6, 89-3, 90-3, 90-6, 91-3, 92-6, 92-9, 93-3, 93-6, 93-9, 96-5, 96-11, 01-5, 01-8, 04-5, 08-06]

Child Support Paid. Serves as a counterpart to the Child Support Agreements module. It seeks information about support for children of the respondent who are under 21 years old and who live with another parent or guardian at any time during the module's reference period of 4 months. [96-3, 96-6, 96-9, 96-12, 01-3, 01-6, 01-09, 04-3, 04-6, 08-4, 08-7, 08-10]

Children's Well-Being. Asks the designated parent or guardian about the health of children in the household, care of the child by nonfamily members, activities the family does with the children (such as reading and outings), lessons and activities outside of school, rules for children's TV viewing, and the respondent's opinion about the quality of the neighborhood. The module obtains information about children in three age groups: under 6 years old, ages 6-11, and ages 12-17 for as many as seven children in each category. Certain questions target fathers or stepfathers who are not designated parents; other questions address whether the child attends a public or private school. Content of this module varies across different panels and waves; analysts should check the documentation for exact content. [92-9, 93-6, 93-9, 96-6, 96-12, 01-7, 04-3, 04-8, 08-4, 08-10]

Education and Training History. Collects information about respondent's highest level of school completed or degree received, courses or programs studied, and dates of receipt of high school and post secondary degrees or diplomas. The module determines if the respondent attended a public or a private high school. Job-related-training questions address training designed to help find or develop skills for a new job as well as to improve skills at the current or most recent job. People 15 years of age and older are asked whether they have received job training; if they have, they are asked about the duration of the training, how it was used, how it was paid for, and if it was federally sponsored.⁴ (Variations are also asked as Education and Work History [84-3] and Education and Training [84-6].) [86-2, 87-2, 88-2, 89-2, 90-2, 91-2, 92-2, 93-2, 96-2, 01-2, 04-2, 08-2]

Employer-Provided Health Benefits. Collects data on the availability of health care benefits from employers and the demographics of workers with and without employer-provided health coverage. The module asks whether the plan restricts the respondent to specified doctors, if family members are covered, and whether any family members have pre-existing conditions not covered by the plan. The module also asks about long-term health care options. [96-5, 01-5, 04-5, 08-6]

Employment History. Identifies patterns of employment, length of employment at certain jobs, and reasons for any periods of unemployment subsequent to the respondent's first job. Number of times away from work, total amount of time out of work and if this interruption was because of care giving to a child, an elder or disabled. Beginning with the 1996 Panel, specific questions that address type of work done, job duties, and the industry in which the respondent works were moved into the core content; previously, such questions had been part of this module. [86-2, 87-2, 88-2, 89-2, 90-2, 91-2, 92-1, 93-1, 96-1, 01-1, 04-1, 08-1]

Extended Measures of Well-Being. Assesses the standard of living of SIPP households. Three types of questions address the physical conditions in which the respondents live. Respondents' ability to meet specified basic needs during the reference period, and respondents' subjective assessments of the quality of their living situations. Included under the first category are questions about the presence and condition of specified consumer durable goods in the home (e.g., clothes washers, refrigerators, air conditioners) and the physical condition of the home itself (e.g., condition of the roof and walls, state of the home's electrical wiring and plumbing), while another series of questions concerns conditions in the respondent's neighborhood, such as safety, cleanliness, and traffic. The second group of questions concerns whether members of the respondent's household had sufficient food to eat during the 4-month reference period and whether they were able to pay rent and other bills or to obtain medical care when needed. Respondents are also asked about the sources of help available when the respondent is in need (e.g., family, friends, or community). Respondents rate their satisfaction with the quality of different aspects of their living conditions. Included are items such as the quality of the furnishings, convenience of the home to shopping, and the general state of repair of their home. (Some of the basic needs questions have been asked as a Basic Needs module [93-9].) From 1996 forward, this module has been given the label Adult Well-being to distinguish it from the topical module focusing on children's well-being. [91-6, 92-3, 93-9]

Family Background. Asked of people between ages 25 and 64. Obtains family characteristics at the time of the respondent's 16th birthday, including how many brothers and sisters the person had, with whom the person lived, the highest grade of school completed by the parents, and the occupations of the parents. [86-2, 87-2, 88-2]

Fertility History. Asked only of females 15 years of age and older and males 18 and older. Men are asked about the number of children they have fathered, and women are asked about their birth histories. Interviewers ask women who have had children when their first and last children were born, along with questions about their employment status during pregnancy and prior to the birth of their first child, circumstances of any absence from work before and after the first birth, and the maternity leave policies of their employers. Post birth employment is also covered. [84-8, 85-4, 86-2, 87-2, 88-2, 89-2, 90-2, 91-2, 92-2, 93-2, 96-2, 01-2, 04-2, 08-2]

Functional Limitations and Disability. Provides data that can be used to evaluate links between types of disability, the family financial situation, and program participation. This module is asked in three variations: overall, adult, and children. Adults are asked the standard Activities of Daily Living (ADL) and Instrumental Activities of Daily Living (IADL) battery of questions. Questions address physical and mental conditions affecting the respondent, the use of mobility aids, vision and hearing impairments, speech difficulties, lifting and aerobic difficulties, and the ability to function independently within the home. For those under age 22, the questions are modified, referring to age-appropriate activities (e.g., questions about work activities are recast to ask about analogous school activities). Questions about children also address the use of special education services. For those under age 15, the interviewer asks the questions of the designated parent or guardian. [90-3, 90-6, 91-3, 92-6, 93-3 for overall module; 92-9, 93-6, 96-5, 96-11, 01-5, 01-8, 04-5, 08-6 for separate children and adults modules]

Health and Disability. Gathered data for all sample members about their general health, functional limitations (using the standard ADL battery of questions), work disability, and the need for personal assistance. Respondents were asked about any hospital stays during the reference period, other periods of illness, other health facilities used, and their health insurance coverage. Information on children was collected from a designated parent or guardian. (Variations were also asked as Functional Activities, Disability Status of Children, and Disability Questions.) [84-3 for Health and Disability; 88-6, 89-3 for Functional Activities; 85-6, 86-3, 87-6, 88-3, 88-6, 89-3 for Disability Status of Children; 96-4 for Disability Questions]

Health Status and Utilization of Health Care Services. Asks about hospital stays, including any in psychiatric institutions; other illnesses or injuries that left the respondent bedridden for at least most of 1 day; doctor visits and frequency of visits, dental visits and frequency of visits; where the respondent seeks health advice (doctor's office, clinic, hospital); and health insurance coverage. (Also asked as Utilization of Health Care Services.) [85-6, 86-3, 87-6, 88-3, 88-6, 89-3, 90-3, 90-6, 91-3, 92-6, 92-9, 93-3, 93-6, 96-3, 96-6, 96-9, 96-12, 01-3, 01-6, 01-9, 04-3, 04-6, 08-4, 08-7, 08-10]

Home Health Care. Asks about the type and sources of help given to respondents who needed help with their personal care, household activities, and basic errands because of a health condition.

Respondents are asked if caregivers were relatives or nonrelatives, and whether or not the caregivers were household members. This module also asks about members of the household who might have given such care, on a nonprofessional level, to a person outside the household. Questions determine the relationship of the caregiver and recipient(s) and the kind of care given. Starting with the 2001 Panel, this topical module is referred to as Informal Caregiving. [88-6, 89-3, 96-7].

Household Relationships. Collects information about relationships among household members. The SIPP core questions gather extensive information about household composition for each month of the panel. This information allows for the identification of families and subfamilies and details each household member's relationship to the household reference person.⁵ As extensive as this information is, it does not cover the interrelationships of all household members. For example, the SIPP core provides no information about the relationships between members of two different unrelated (to the household reference person) subfamilies residing in the same household. This topical module fills that gap by collecting complete information about how each member of the household is related to every other member of the household. Relationships are specified in detail; for example, a brother is a full brother, half brother, stepbrother, or adoptive brother. In-law relationships are also identified. [84-8, 85-4, 86-2, 87-2, 88-2, 89-2, 90-2, 91-2, 92-2, 93-2, 96-2, 01-2, 04-2, 08-2]

Housing Costs, Conditions, and Energy Usage. Collects information on mortgage payments, real estate taxes, fire insurance, principal owned, when the mortgage was obtained, and interest rates; rent; type of fuel used and heating facilities; appliances; and vehicles.⁶ Questions on value of home and automobile are used in conjunction with assets and liabilities reported in the Assets and Liabilities Topical Module to calculate each individual's net worth. This topical module also helped to fulfill a need for information concerning energy usage that has resulted from increased interest in recent years over the rising costs of energy and concerns about conservation. The information can be used in analysis of the requirements of individuals and households who participate in energy assistance programs. [84-4]

Informal Caregiving. See Home Health Care. Starting with the 2001 Panel, this topical module is no longer referred to Home Health Care. Asks about the type and sources of help given to respondents who needed help with their personal care, household activities, and basic errands because of a health condition. Respondents are asked if caregivers are relatives or nonrelatives, and whether or not the caregivers are household members. This module also asks about members of the household who might have given such care, on a nonprofessional level, to a person outside the household. Questions determine the relationship of the caregiver and recipient(s) and the kind of care given. [01-7, 04-7, 08-9].

⁵ The family is defined by the Census Bureau as two or more people who are living together and are related by blood, marriage, or adoption. A primary family is the family containing the household reference person; an unrelated subfamily is a family that does not contain the reference person or anyone related to the reference person. Related subfamilies are families within the primary family. A daughter and husband living with the daughter's parents would constitute a related subfamily. The reference person is the person in whose name the home is owned or rented. If the house is owned jointly by a married couple, either the husband or the wife may be listed as the reference person.

⁶ Subsequent to the 1984 Panel, questions on energy usage were combined into a separate module. Vehicles and housing values are retained together in a module entitled Real Estate and Vehicles.

Job Offers . Asked about any job offers received by respondents who were looking for work or who were on layoff during the reference period. If the respondent was offered a job and did not accept it, obtained the reason for rejecting the job and the amount of money that was offered. [85-6, 86-3]

Long-Term Care. Focuses on health-related conditions that might cause a person to need help around the home. Specific questions address the ability of people in the household to manage their personal care, housework, meal preparation, and basic errands outside the home. The module ascertains whether or not individuals providing such assistance are household members. Additional questions ask about community services and the financial burden of acquiring assistance. The module also asks about the activities of respondents who themselves provided such assistance on a nonprofessional basis to individuals outside the household. (Also asked as Home Health Care.) [85-6, 86-3, 87-6, 88-3, 88-6, 89-3]

Marital History. Asks questions of all respondents aged 15 and older who have ever been married. The date of the present marriage is determined; for those married more than once, SIPP records the dates of their first two marriages and their last marriage, if married more than twice. If appropriate, respondents are asked when their previous marriages ended and whether they were widowed or divorced at the end of their marriages. [84-8, 85-4, 86-2, 87-2, 88-2, 89-2, 90-2, 91-2, 92-2, 93-2, 96-2, 01-2, 04-2, 08-2]

Medical Expenses. Collects data about out-of-pocket medical expenses, health services, doctor visits, prescription drugs, insurance reimbursement, and health and physical conditions that might affect the respondent's ability to work. The reasons for and length of any hospitalizations are determined, and respondents are asked about the types of medical professionals who delivered care. Most questions apply to both children and adults. [87-7, 88-4, 89-4, 90-7, 91-4, 92-7, 93-4, 93-7, 96-3, 96-6, 96-9, 96-12, 01-3, 01-6, 01-9, 04-3, 04-6, 08-4, 08-7, 08-10]

Respondents born in a foreign country are asked about their citizenship status and when they came to the United States to stay. [84-8, 85-4, 86-2, 87-2, 88-2, 89-2, 90-2, 91-2, 92-2, 93-2, 96-2, 01-2, 04-2, 08-02]

Real Estate, Shelter Costs, Dependent Care, and Vehicles. Gathers information about housing tenure and financing, other real estate ownership, and automobile ownership. Homeowners are asked a series of questions that allow the estimation of net real estate equity. Reasons for Not Working /Reservation Wage. Ascertain the reasons that persons are not in the labor force and the conditions under which persons might want to join the labor force. The reservation wage questions ask about the pay rate that a person would require in order to begin working (Ryscavage, 1987). Respondents are asked about their coverage and vesting in pension plans, types of plans, the reasons they are not included by or do not participate in plans, current contributions and amounts of money in their accounts if applicable, and how the money in their own plans is invested. Other questions concern loans from pension accounts and treatment of lump sums received from prior job pension plans. Respondents currently receiving pension income are asked about the types of pension they receive, provisions for cost-of-living adjustments, and health benefits. Respondents are also asked Industry and Occupation data about the job or business from which their pensions are received. (Also asked as Pension Plan Coverage [84-7].) [84-4, 85-7, 86-4, 86-7, 87-4, 90-4, 91-7, 92-4, 93-9, 96-7, 01-7, 04-7, 08-3, 08-11]

Asked of people aged 15 and older, the module includes questions to pinpoint the grade level of people enrolled in a general, technical, or business school; their pattern of full- or part-time enrollment; amount of tuition and fees; costs of room and board; and books and supplies. Specific sources of educational assistance, such as the GI Bill or employer assistance, are also determined. (Also asked as Education Financing and Enrollment.) [84-9, 85-5, 85-8, 86-5, 87-5, 88-5, 90-5, 90-8, 91-5, 91-8, 92-5, 92-8, 93-5, 93-8, 96-5, 01-5, 04-5]

Support for Nonhousehold Members . Provides information about respondents' routine payments supporting people who are not current household members. Includes both child support payments for own children under 21 years of age and payments made to (or for) people who are not children of the respondents, for example, an elderly parent in a nursing home or an adult child living away from home and in an entry-level job. Questions about child support include number of children supported, type and year of agreement, annual amount and method of payment, health care provisions and custodial arrangements, and amount of contact with the absent children.
