Acknowledgments

The papers in this volume were presented at a National Bureau of Economic Research conference held in Cambridge, Massachusetts, on 27–28 March 1997. We thank Nancy J. Kaufman, C. Tracy Orleans, and their colleagues at the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for their intellectual and financial support. We also thank Martin S. Feldstein, who encouraged the NBER Health Economics Program to pursue research on illicit drug use and who encouraged us to hold the conference, and we are grateful to the many participants who helped make the conference lively and productive. We also thank the National Institute on Drug Abuse, the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, the National Cancer Institute, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for their many years of support for our past and ongoing research on the economics of substance use and abuse. In addition, we thank Kirsten Foss Davis and Rob Shannon for their help in putting on the conference and Christine Schwab, Amy Winston, and Helena Fitz-Patrick for their editorial assistance. Finally, we thank our wives and children for making every day worthwhile.
