SOURCE: Finance-company reports to NBER. These reports were initiated several years ago by John M. Chapman, Director, Consumer Credit Management Program, Columbia University, and have been continued by the author. In a number of instances, particularly among the smaller firms, data are for end of fiscal year. Where possible, debt denominated in foreign currencies has been deducted.

^aIncludes current maturities of long-term debt, but excludes current liabilities other than notes payable (e.g., accruals).

^bBank debt exceeded credit lines in this year.
