International Economic Cooperation

Edited by MARTIN FELDSTEIN

The volume includes background papers prepared by Stanley Fischer, Richard C. Marston, J. David Richardson, and Jeffrey D. Sachs, as well as personal statements by W. Michael Blumenthal, Edmund Pratt, Jr., Helmut Schmidt, Robert S. Strauss, and others.

"The National Bureau of Economic Research has commendably produced a volume of four essays by distinguished analysts of international economic affairs that is nonetheless accessible to the nonspecialist. Each essay considers a single topic—macroeconomic policy, exchange rate coordination, trade policy, and developing country debt—and each is followed by several commentaries."—Orbis

Misalignment of Exchange Rates

Effects on Trade and Industry

Edited by RICHARD C. MARSTON

"These thoughtful and well-written essays by experts provide balanced insights on the concept of "misalignment" of exchange rates, on the external adjustment process, on the limitations of flexible exchange rates, and on the role of macroeconomic policy in preventing or controlling wide swings in exchange rates."—Choice
