
Subject Index

- Aggregate price movements, 5–6
- Appreciation, of the dollar, 4–5, 9–11, 19, 23–27, 32, 241–45, 269
- Assets, 290–93
- Auto dollar, 6, 216, 221, 225
- Auto industry, 6, 215–40; Britain and, 221, 223–34; Canada and, 217–35; disaggregation and, 217; exchange rates and, 217–25; Germany and, 217, 221, 223–24; inadequate price indexes and, 217–18; offsetting strong forces and, 216; real sales and market shares, 230–31; real variables and, 217–18; U.S. dollar and, 217–25; U.S. passenger automobiles and, 218–40; U.S. vs. Japanese price indexes and, 226–30
- Bilateral trade equations, U.S. and Japan, 118–20
- Bonds, 16, 24, 111–12, 157
- British economy, 3; auto industry and, 221, 223–34; demand effects and, 52–59, 72–75; exchange rates and, 39–42, 47–52, 70–72; exports and, 52–63, 72–75; government contracts and, 50–51; hysteresis effects on, 42; imports in, 52–63, 72–75; macroeconomic indicators in, 39–40; manufacturing in, 39–40, 43, 47; misalignment and, 39–75; monetary policies of, 47–52; nonoil exports in, 54; North Sea oil and, 44–47, 69; oil production and, 41–42, 63, 70–72; policy implications in, 63–64, 70–72; supply effects and, 59–63, 72–75; trade performance and, 52–63; unemployment and, 39–40, 42–43
- Budget, effects of a shift in. 18
- Canada, in auto industry, 217–35
- Capital, reallocation of, 285–90, 295–96
- Competition: auto industry and, 6, 215–40; devaluation and, 197–201; exchange rate and, 5–6; imperfect, 197–201; strength of U.S. dollar and, 277–81
- Competitive Exchange Rate Act of 1987, 162–67
- Consumer price index, 30n.3, 201–10
- Contract length, and labor, 184–85
- Currencies, misalignment of, 82–88. See also individual currencies
- Debt: accumulation of, 20, 22, 281–85, 295; GNP-ratio and, 292–93; per capita public, 35–38
- Defense spending, 24
- Deficit: closing of the, 22–23; defense spending and, 24; domestic saving and, 13; effects of a continuing, 20–22, 35–38; Gramm-Rudman-Hollings (GRH) Act and, 2, 18, 22–23; high employment and, 10, 24; structural, 12, 18, 27–30

- Demand effects, in Britain, 52–59
- Deutsche mark (DM), 11, 19, 27–29, 82, 149, 233n.7, 234n.8, 277
- Dollar: appreciation of, 4–5, 9–11, 19, 23–27, 32, 241–45, 269; auto industry and, 217–25; capital reallocation and, 285–90, 295–96; debt burden and, 281–85, 295; decline of, 149–50, 277; and employment, 297–98; exchange rate and, 279–94; hysteresis and, 278; invisible assets and, 290–93; labor adjustment costs and, 297–98; strong, 277–98; manufacturing and, 290–93; trade deficit and, 296; to yen rate, 105–48
- Domestic goods, 171–73, 191
- Econometric model, 77, 89–90
- Economic Recovery Act of 1981, 10, 24
- Employment: adjustment of, 2; Japan and, 133–37; the labor market and, 169–94; manufacturing and, 6–7, 242–75; U.S. dollar and, 297–98
- Endaka* (strong yen), 105, 112–16
- Equilibrium: adjustments in, 1, 4–5; calculations of, 98; financial market, 14–16; flow, 11–14; temporary, 10; yen-dollar rate and, 110, 145
- European Monetary System (EMS), 3, 39, 77–103; exchange rate stability and, 78–79; growth of exports and, 92–93; trade and industry in, 82–88; intra-EMS exports and, 93–95; misalignment and, 80–82; purpose of, 77; strategic implications of, 100–103
- Exchange rate: auto dollar, 6; auto industry and, 215–40; in Britain, 39–42, 47–52, 70–72; competition and, 5–6; devaluation of, 195–213; economic policies and, 153–55; European Monetary System and, 78–79; fiscal deficits and, 35–38; fiscal policies and, 153–55; floating, 4, 149; foreign, 9; global credit cycle and policy conflict and, 152; interest rates and, 17, 32–34; international agreement on, 5; international trade and, 88–89; labor market adjustment and, 185–86; misalignment and, 150–51; money supply expectations and, 305–7; pass-through, 7; pricing and, 300–302; reform, 152–53; regimes and inflation control, 160–62; risks and, 150; sterling, 70–75; U.S. dollar, 279–94; U.S. manufacturing and, 241–75; U.S. passenger automobiles and, 218–25; yen, 4; yen-dollar relationship and, 105–48
- Exports: in Britain, 52–63; European Monetary System members and, 92–96; manufacturing and, 244–45, 270–75, 290–93; real growth rate of, 92–3; strategic pricing equation (Japan) and, 141–42
- Financial market equilibrium, 14–16
- Financial policy, in open economy, 157–59
- Fiscal policy, U.S. and Japan, 137–40
- Fixed exchange-rate leadership, 161–62
- Foreign: borrowing, 13, 27–30; exchange value of dollar, 9; goods, 171–73, 191; goods and U.S. manufacturing, 243–45, 270–71; investment, 7, 22
- Fundamental equilibrium exchange rate (FEER), 165–67
- German economy, 11, 19, 27–29, 32–34; auto industry and, 217, 221, 223–24; trade and, 78
- Goods, and manufacturing, 243–45
- Gramm-Rudman-Hollings (GRH) Act, 2, 9–10, 18, 22, 138, 151
- Gross national product (GNP), 7, 28, 38, 54, 118; foreign debt and, 109–10, 137–40, 282–85; labor and, 185–86; manufacturing and, 289–92
- Home depreciation, 300–302
- Hysteresis: effects on British economy, 42, 72–75, 278; in manufacturing, 269; U.S. dollar and, 278
- Imperfect competition, 197–201
- Imports: in Britain, 52–63, 72–75; U.S. manufacturing and, 245–46, 270–75, 290–93
- Inflation, 158–62, 201–13; control, 160–62; wages and, 206–9
- Interest rates, 9–11, 17, 25, 32–34, 166–67; real long-term, 9–11, 25; short-term effects of, 34
- Investments: foreign, 7, 22; irreversible, 302–5

- Japanese economy, 3–4, 19–20, 32–34;
 auto industry and, 6, 215–40;
 bilateral trade equations and, 118– 20; distributor and dealer margins in, 128–30; employment and, 134–37;
 fiscal policy effects of, 137–40;
 multilateral trade equations in, 120– 23; strategic pricing equation and,
 141–42; trade and, 4, 114–28, 130–
 33; unemployment and, 106; U.S. dollar and, 296; U.S. productivity growth and, 110–12; voluntary restraint agreements (VRAs) and, 6, 216, 225, 229–30, 238–40; yen in, 4, 6, 11, 18–20; yen-dollar exchange rate and, 105–48
- Japanese Ministry of International Trade (MITI), 127
- Labor: adjustment costs on U.S. dollar, 297–98; contract length and, 184– 85; demand, 7; the goods market and, 171–73, 190–91; misalignment and, 169–94; money markets and, 172–73, 190–91; overlapping contracts and, 5; in the presence of misalignment, 185–86;
 unemployment in Britain and, 43;
 U.S. dollar and, 297–98; wages and,
 169–94. See also Manufacturing
- Macroeconomic model, 12, 67–69, 70, 278
- Macroeconomics, open-economy, 299– 307
- Manufacturing, 6–7, 241–75; in Britain, 39–40, 43, 47; employment in, 248–
 58, 274; exchange rate and U.S., 241–75; exports and, 244–45, 270– 75, 290–93; hysteresis and, 269;
 import-competing goods and, 245– 46, 270–75; production and non-production workers, 259–70; U.S.
 dollar and, 290–93; variables in, 68–
 69; worker characteristics and, 274–
 75
- Misalignment: in the auto industry, 215– 40; causes of, 2; calculating, 99; of currencies, 82–88; defined, 1;
 devaluation of exchange rate and,
 195–213; effects on British economy,
 39–75; the European Monetary system and, 3, 80–82; at the industry level, 5; in the labor market, 169–94; manufacturing effects of, 6–7; measures of, 98– 100; of U.S. dollar, 150–51
- Monetary policy: in Britain, 47–52; in United States, 32–34
- Money markets, and labor, 171–73, 191
- Money supply expectations, 305–7
- Monopolistic competition, and labor market adjustment, 169–94
- Multilateral trade equations, U.S. and Japan, 118–20
- National income identity, 11–14
- North Sea oil, 44–47, 63, 69; discovery of, 2
- Objective indicators, 153
- Oil: effects on United Kingdom, 41–42, 43–47, 70–72; North Sea, 2, 44–47;
 price of, 1, 10; price shocks, 47, 71– 72
- Oil prices: effects on the yen, 11, 19–20;
 fall in, 17, 19–20, 64n.2
- Open economy: financial policy in, 157–
 69; labor market adjustments in, 169–94
- Open-economy macroeconomics:
 irreversible adjustment and, 302–5;
 money supply expectations and,
 305–7; pricing and, 300–2
- Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), 18, 32, 100, 138
- Overshooting, 27
- Pass-through: exchange rate, 7; of yen appreciation, 125
- Portfolio, and savings-investment behavior, 2
- Pound sterling, 82, 85, 233n.7, 234n.8;
 devaluation of, 210–11; effects on British economy, 2–3; exchange rates and, 70–75; misalignment of,
 3; real exchange rate and, 70–75.
See also British Economy
- Price indexes, in auto industry, 217–18
- Pricing, open-economy macroeconomics and, 300–2
- Productivity: income and, 181–84;
 shocks, 181
- Protectionist pressure, measure of, 99– 100

- Purchasing power parity (PPP), 80–81, 107–8; 144–45
- Rate of return, 14–17
- Reallocation of capital, 285–90, 295–96
- Safe haven effect, 1, 11, 30
- Salop-circle model, 7, 300
- Shocks: in auto industry, 238; financial, 157–58; fiscal, 4; monetary, 5; in oil prices, 47, 70, 72; pricing and, 300–2; productivity, 181–84
- Stabilizing speculation, 26
- Sterilized intervention, 4
- Sterling. See Pound Sterling
- Stocks, and prices, 13
- Supply effects, in Britain, 59–63
- Target zone approach, 4, 153, 167
- Temporary equilibrium, 10
- Trade: auto industry and, 215–40; in Britain, 52–63, 72–75; deficit and U.S. dollar, 296; the European Monetary System and, 82–88; international growth rate of, 88–89; between Japan and the U.S., 114–28, 245; Japan surplus and, 124–28; effects of Japanese on, 4
- Underlying capital flow, 108–10
- Unemployment: in Britain, 39–42, 72; in Japan, 106
- Unions, in Britain, 50–51
- United Kingdom. See British Economy
- U.S. dollar. See Dollar
- U.S. Treasury: bill market, 140; bonds and notes, 111–12
- Variables, in manufacturing, 68–69
- Voluntary restraint agreements (VRAs), 6, 216, 225, 229–30, 234n.15, 238–40
- Wages: inflation and, 206–9; labor and, 169–94; long-run equilibrium and, 173; overlapping contracts and, 189; short- and intermediate run, 174–81. See also Labor
- Welfare, in Britain, 63
- Worker characteristics, and manufacturing, 274–75
- Yen, 125, 128, 146, 277; effects of oil prices on, 11, 18–20; exchange rates for, 4
- Yen-dollar relationship: capital account side and, 110–12, 145; effects of currency appreciation and, 133–37; endaka adjustment and, 112–16; exchange rate and, 105–48; Japanese fiscal policy and, 137–40; pass-through of, 124–28; purchasing power parity (PPP) calculations and, 107–8, 144–45; sustainability calculations and, 108–10; trade and, 114–28, 145; trade adjustment and, 130–33