

---

Subject Index

---

- Accounting standards, 114–15
- Adjustable exchange rates, 5. See also Exchange rate regimes
- Adverse selection, 94
- Antidumping (AD), 170–71
- Argentina: banking supervision and regulation in, 8–9; BASIC system in, 116, 116n5; currency board of, 4n3, 6, 57–60, 79–80; dollarization in, 78–79
- Asian financial crisis: corporate governance and, 412; structural policy conditionality and, 414–22; yen-dollar rate and, 166–67
- Asian Monetary Fund (AMF), 261–63
- Asymmetric information, financial crises and, 94–95
- Bailins, 189n29, 252–57. See also Private-sector involvement (PSI)
- Bailouts, 191n32, 252–57. See also International lender of last resort (ILOLR)
- Balance-of-payments crises: financial crises and, 317–19; policies for, 314–16. See also Financial crises
- Bank for International Settlement (BIS), 173, 333; G10 central banks and, 175–76
- Banking panics, 105–6. See also Financial crises
- Bank of Mexico, 70, 498–99
- Bankruptcy laws: efficient financial systems and, 115; inadequacy of, 21
- Banks: classification of, in United States, 106–7; exchange rate regimes and, 135–36; financial crises and, 308–13; financial supervision of, 7–9; in financial systems, 95–97; foreign, and financial reforms, 117–18; international lending and, 491; prompt corrective action and, 106–8; reducing role of state-owned, 119–20; reforming of, in India, 138–44. See also Central banks
- Basel Capital Accord, reform of, 228–29
- Basel Eurocurrency Committee, 175
- BASIC (bonds, auditing, supervision, information, and credit ratings) system, in Argentina, 116–17, 116n5
- Bond clauses, 492
- Bonded debt restructuring, lessons from recent cases of, 209–15
- Bonds, auditing, supervision, information, and credit ratings (BASIC) system, in Argentina, 116–17, 116n5
- Brazil: banking supervision and regulation in, 8; floating exchange rate of, 6; private-sector involvement in, 475–78; rigid exchange rates and, 35
- Bretton Woods system, 245, 298
- Burden sharing of financial crises, 189n29, 465–67
- Business cycles, industrialized countries and, 156–57
- Capital account convertibility, 7
- Capital controls, financial reforms and, 118–19

- Capital flows, 222
 Capital inflows, 101, 118
 Capital outflows, 101, 118
 Central banks: coordination among G10, 175–76; as lenders of last resort, 121.
See also Banks
 Chile: capital account convertibility in, 7; capital controls and monetary policy in, 48–49; capital inflows in, 44–46; composition of capital inflows in, 46–48; controls on capital inflows into, 49–53
 China, foreign exchange reserves of, 9
 Collateral, 115
 Collateral enhancements, 265–67
 Collateral fund lending, 426
 Collective action, market-based versus voluntary club-based, 467–68
 Collective action clauses (CACs), 190, 190n31, 206–9, 279
 Committee on Global Financial Stability (CGFS), 175
 Connected lending, 113–14
 Constructive ambiguity, doctrine of, 187–88
 Constructive engagement, 189, 189n29
 Contagion: Argentina and, 59; Chile and, 49–53
 Contingent credit lines (CCLs), 21, 232, 238–40, 258, 291, 500
 Contingent lending arrangements, 493
 Corporate governance, Asian financial crisis and, 412
 Corporate leverage, 101–2
 Credible exchange rates, 32
 Credit enhancements, 265–67
 Credit rationing, 97
 Currency boards, 42; Argentina and, 4n3, 6, 57–60, 79–80
 Currency crisis stage, of financial crises, 102–3
 Current account deficits, 3–4
 D'Amato amendment, 186
 Debt deflation, 4
 Debt exchange offers, 207–8, 209
 Debt restructuring: alternative ideas for processing, 268–71; bonded, 209–15
 De facto exchange rates, 35
 Defaulting countries, 464
 Deregulation of financial systems, 122–24
 Developing countries. See Emerging market economies
 Disclosure requirements, 114–15
 Dollarization, 6–7, 42, 79, 264n90; Panama and, 60–62
 East Asian crisis. See Asian financial crisis
 Eastern Europe, IMF and, 15
 Ecuador: dollarization in, 6, 42n4; private-sector involvement of debt-workout in, 482–84
 Emerging Market Bond Index (EMBI) Global, 162
 Emerging market economies: feasibility of floating exchange rates in, 62–65; financial and currency crises in, 1; IMF structural programs and, 369–70; managing financial and currency crises in, 13–16; reducing risk of financial and currency crises in, 3–13
 Enhanced Structural Adjustment Facility (ESAF), 378
 Evergreening, 114
 Exchange rate changes, for balance-of-payments crises, 314–15
 Exchange Rate Mechanism (ERM), 262, 290
 Exchange rate regimes: banks and, 135–36; classification of, 82–83; credible, 32; foreign exchange reserves and, 124–27; political economy of, 136; price stability and, 124–27; selecting type of, 348–49; two-corner approach to, 42–43
 Exchange rate stabilization programs, 33–35
 Exit strategies, from exchange rate systems, 39–41
 Extended Fund Facility (EFF), 174, 238, 378
 Extended Structural Adjustment Facility, 238
 Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act (FDICIA), 106–7
 Feedback rules, in Mexico, 70–72
 Financial crises, 308–13; balance of payments crises and, 317–19; burden sharing of, 465–67; capital account convertibility and, 7; defined, 94–95; deterioration of financial-sector balance sheets and, 95–97; deterioration of nonfinancial balance sheets and, 98–99; dynamics of, 99–105; financial supervision and, 7–9; fixed exchange rates and, 3–7; foreign exchange reserves and, 9–10; interest rate increases and, 97; in Latin America, 1–3; management of, 16–29; moral hazard and, 463–64; 1980s versus 1990s, 460–63; policies for preventing, 316–17;

- policies of industrialized countries and, 10–13; preventing, 281–82; principles for, 490; private-sector involvement in, 464–68; rules for, 488–89; stages of, 99–105; uncertainty and, 97–98. See also Balance-of-payments crises; Financial reforms; Stabilization programs
- Financial institutions. See Banks; Central banks
- Financial reforms: accounting standards and disclosure requirements, 114–15; eliminating too-big-to-fail policies, 122; encouraging market-based discipline, 116–17; entry of foreign banks and, 117–18; legal and judicial systems and, 114; monetary policy and, 124; price stability and, 124; prudential supervision, 105–14; reduction of role of state-owned financial institutions, 119–20; restrictions on foreign-denominated debt, 120–22; sequencing financial liberalization, 122–24
- Financial-sector balance sheets, deterioration of, 95–97
- Financial Stability Forum (FSF), 134, 174, 224–26, 263, 368
- Financial supervision of banking system, 7–9
- Fiscal policies: balance-of-payments crises and, 316; setting, 350
- Fixed exchange rates, 245, 297–98; in Argentina, 6; financial and currency crises and, 3–7; price stability and, 124–27
- Floating exchange rates, 5, 64, 298. See also Exchange rate regimes
- Foreign banks, financial reforms and, 117–18
- Foreign exchange liabilities and reserves, 9–10
- Foreign exchange reserves, exchange rate regimes and, 124–27
- General Agreements to Borrow (GAB), 258
- Global financial superregulators, 263–64
- Group of Seven (G7) countries, 155–56; business cycles and, 156–57; coordination among central banks and Bank for International Settlement, 175–76; coordination modalities of, 171–73; exchange rates of, 165–68; government agencies and, 180–81; heads of state and, 181; national savings rates and, 157–59; Paris Club and, 176–80; reforming of international financial architecture by, 220–22; role of finance ministers and deputies, 173–75; trade policies of, 168–71
- Group of Ten (G10) countries, central banks of, 175–76
- Group of Three (G3) countries, 181–83; exchange rate stabilization for, 168
- Group of Twenty (G20) countries, 223–24, 368
- Group of Twenty-two (G22) countries, 218–20
- Halifax Summit, 217–18
- Hedge funds, 229, 231–32
- Highly Leveraged Institutions (HLIs), role of, 222, 229–31
- Illiquidity, 370
- India, 137–38; banking reforms in, 138–43; capital controls in, 143–46; exchange rate policies of, 146–48
- Indonesia: economic crisis of, 335–40; effectiveness of IMF program for, 340–43; financial and currency crisis in, 17; IMF and, 23–24; private-sector involvement of debt-workout in, 478–80; structural policy conditions for, 393–401
- Indonesian Bank Restructuring Agency (IBRA), 341
- Industrialized countries: policies of, and financial crises, 10–13; role of interest rates in, 159–65; trade policies, 168–71. See also Group of Seven (G7) countries
- Inflation. See Price stability
- Inflation targeting, 499
- Information asymmetries, 267
- Insolvency, 370. See also Bankruptcy laws
- Interest Accrual Notes (Ians), 209
- Interest rates: increases in, and financial crises, 97; role of, in industrialized countries, 159–65
- Intermediate exchange rates, 42
- International deposit insurance, 264–65
- International financial architecture, reform of, 220–22, 226–33. See also International Monetary Fund (IMF)
- International Financial Institution Advisory Commission (Meltzer Commission), 21, 236–44
- International financial institutions (IFIs), 368, 372
- International lender of last resort (ILOLR), 251–52, 257–58, 279

- International Monetary and Financial Committee (IMFC), 174, 222–23
- International Monetary Fund (IMF), 3, 297; alternative mandates of, 380–85; banking problems in developing countries and, 371–72; conditionality guidelines for standby lending, 376–80; criticisms of structural policy conditions of, 366–69; critics of, 235–36; Eastern Europe and, 15; establishment of, 14; G7 reform initiatives, 248–51; Latin America and, 14–15; mandates of, 374–76; Meltzer Commission report, 236–44; mission creep and, 244–48; pillars of, 237–38; Russia and, 15; size of monetary packages and, 258; studies of effects of programs of, 409–10; suggested reforms for, 233–35. See also Stabilization programs; Structural policies
- International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO), 220
- Intervention, 87
- Korea: aftermath of crises, 330–32; banking supervision and regulation in, 8; economic crises of, 320–27; effectiveness of IMF program, 332–35; financial crisis, 370; foreign exchange reserves of, 9; IMF and, 23–24; IMF stabilization program for, 327–30; private-sector involvement in, 473–75; structural policy conditions for, 393–95; structural reform in, 448–52
- Kyushu-Okinawa G7 Summit, 221–22
- Latin America: financial and currency crises in, 1–3; IMF and, 14–15
- Letters of intent (LOIs), for Indonesia, 342
- Liberalization of financial systems, 122–24
- London Club, 178, 179, 205n47, 303, 470, 470n7
- London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR), 162
- Long-Term Capital Management (LTCM), 164
- Meltzer Commission (International Financial Institution Advisory Commission), 21, 236–44
- Mexico: banking supervision and regulation in, 9; exchange rate regime in, 64–65; fear of floating exchange rates in, 72–74; financial crisis in, 496–98; as floating exchange rate regime, 64–65; IMF and, 14–15; private-sector involvement in, 470–71; volatility of peso-dollars, 65–70
- Mission creep, IMF and, 244–48
- MONA (Monitoring Fund Arrangements) database, 387
- Monetary policy: balance-of-payments crises and, 315; financial reforms and, 124; in Mexico, 70–72; setting, 350
- Money, as institution, 78
- Monitoring Fund Arrangements (MONA) database, 387
- Moral hazard, 87, 94, 287, 464–65, 501; international capital flows and, 198–200
- Multi Fiber Agreement (MFA), 170
- National savings rates, industrialized countries and, 157–59
- New Agreements to Borrow (NAB), 258
- New Zealand, disclosure requirements in, 114–16
- Nominal exchange rates, 33–34
- Nonfinancial balance sheets, deterioration of, 98–99
- Pacto de Solidaridad, 33
- Pakistan: collective action clauses and, 207; private-sector involvement of debt-workout in, 484–85
- Panama, dollarization and, 60–62
- Paris Club (PC), 173, 176–80, 303, 466–67, 466n5
- Pegged exchange rates, 39; Asian crisis and, 35; exit strategies from, 39–41; price stability and, 124–27. See also Exchange rate regimes
- Performance criteria (PCs), 386–87
- Philippines, financial crisis of, 344–45
- Polak, Jacques J., 369
- Poverty Reduction and Growth Facility (PRGF), 238, 429–30
- Price stability, 87; financial reforms and, 124; pegged exchange rates and, 124–27
- Principal Interest Notes (Prins), 209
- Private-sector involvement (PSI), 173, 188–98, 215–17; in Brazil, 475–78; lessons of, 486–88; in Mexico, 470–71; official G7 doctrine of, 205–6; Paris Club and, 179; principles for, 490; rules for, 488–89; in Thailand, 471–72; voluntary ap-

- proaches to, 469; voluntary versus mandatory, 467–68
- Program reviews, 387
- Prompt corrective action, 106–8, 132–33
- Prudential supervision, 105–6, 132–33; accountability of supervisors, 112–13; connected lending restrictions, 113–14; focusing on risk management, 108–9; independence of regulatory/supervisory agencies, 111–12; in India, 138–44; limiting too-big-to-fail policies, 109–11; prompt corrective action, 106–8, 132–33; resources and authority for prudential regulators/supervisors, 111
- Quantitative restrictions (QRs), 300
- Quasi pegged exchange rates, 35
- Rajapatirana, Sarath, 301n12
- Real exchange rate (RER), overvaluation of, 35–39
- Reports on standards and codes (ROSCs), 279
- Rey Report, 194, 217–18
- Rigid exchange rates, 35
- Romania, private-sector involvement of debt-workout in, 209, 484–85
- Russia: IMF and, 15; private-sector involvement of debt-workout in, 480–82; rigid exchange rates and, 35
- Savings rates, industrialized countries and, 157–59
- Singapore, banking supervision and regulation in, 8
- Sovereign lending theory, 463–64
- Stabilization programs: Indonesian crisis and, 338–43; Korean crisis and, 327–30, 332–35; lessons learned from, 347–48; traditional, 299–308. See also Financial crises; International Monetary Fund (IMF)
- Stand-By Arrangements (SBAs), 236, 237; structural policy conditions for, 387–88
- Standstills, 200–201; benefits of, 201–3; drawbacks of, 203–5
- State economic enterprises (SEEs), 302
- Structural Adjustment Facility (SAF), 378; structural benchmarks and, 405–6
- Structural benchmarks (SBMs), 387; number of, in IMF fund programs, 401–5; SAF programs and, 405–6
- Structural policies: approaches to streamlining, 425–30; criteria for monitoring, 386–87; defined, 366; emerging economies and, 369–70; IMF mandate and, 373–85; in IMF programs, 386; Korean crisis and, 370; versus macroeconomic policies, 372–73. See also International Monetary Fund (IMF)
- Structural policy conditions: Asian financial crisis and, 414–22; average number of criteria per program for, 388–93; compliance with, 407–9; criticisms of IMF, 366–69; determining, 350–51; economic performance of transition economies and, 410–12; effectiveness of, 406–10; evolution of, 422–24; in IMF programs, 437–42; for Indonesia, 393–401; instruments for monitoring compliance with, 386–87; for Korea, 393–95; for Thailand, 393–95; total number of conditions per program per year for, 387–88; “Washington policy consensus” and, 412–13. See also International Monetary Fund (IMF)
- Super-fixed exchange rate regimes, 54–56, 82
- Superregulators, financial, 263–64
- Supervisors: accountability of, 112–13; resources and authority for, 111
- Supplemental Reserve Facility (SRF), 237–38, 258, 469
- Taiwan, foreign exchange reserves of, 9
- Tequila crisis, 57
- Thailand, 504–5; banking supervision and regulation in, 8; financial and currency crisis in, 3–4; financial crises of, 343–44; IMF and, 23–24; private-sector involvement in, 471–72; structural policy conditions for, 393–95
- Too-big-to-fail policies, 258–61; financial reforms and, 122; limiting, 109–11
- Trade policies, of G7 countries, 168–71
- Transparency, 227–28, 279; Mexico and, 72
- Twin crises. See Balance-of-payments crises; Financial crises
- Two-corner approach, to exchange rate regimes, 42–43
- Ukraine: collective action clauses and, 207; private-sector involvement of debt-workout in, 485
- Uncertainty, financial crises and, 97–98