This position is expected to last two years and our preferred start date is June 1, 2021, although we are willing to accommodate an earlier or later start. Applications will be evaluated on a rolling basis. Short-listed applicants will be asked to complete a technical exercise.

The ideal candidate will: (i) have a strong quantitative background; (ii) have strong computer skills including programming; (iii) be able to work independently and creatively to solve problems; and (iv) have a strong long-term interest in pursuing a PhD in economics, finance or related field. Background in economics is a plus, but not necessary – we welcome candidates with strong technical backgrounds who are looking for more exposure to economics and finance.
